HALLOWEEN SAFETY TIPS

For many seniors, the masked visitors and constant knocking on the door can be unnerving and frightening as the night wears on. If you are accepting trick-or-treaters: Stay in your home when passing out candy. Keep your porch, entry way, and sidewalk clear of decorations that could cause an accident. Use battery operated candles. Turn on porch lights and keep the trick-or-treaters' path well-lit. Keep pets in another room before opening the door. If you are not accepting trick-or-treaters: and you enjoy seeing children in costumes, but don't want to pass out candy, check out local libraries, community center for activities in which to participate.
